

EAAH Review

(A Review of the Document Establishing An Apostolic Hermeneutic)

A poignant (solemn) reminder that everybody could (should) use, from time to time, a provocation to examine, consider, and admit that we need to sharpen our senses and methods of study and our subsequent interpretation of Scriptural principles and doctrines.

Elder Garza has developed this tome by laboring hours upon hours, days upon days, and even years upon years of prayer, study, and self-examination—a careful process.

It is well researched, and there has been no lack of turning over every available stone to look into the minds and motivations of many characters in history as well as contemporary writers and thinkers.

This writing does, as it should challenge every “student” to humbly consider biases, presuppositions, and even pitfalls resulting in unrefined Biblical interpretation.

It exhorts every “potential” theologian to consider how important it is to employ the spiritual optometrist and to ensure that their prescription for an interpretive lens is properly ground from the Apostolic laboratory with precision tools.

Now, put your glasses on and read. If it is not clear, check your prescription and read it again, and even again... You will be enlightened by it, and you will be challenged and motivated to accept the weighty responsibility of careful Biblical interpretation.

I am convinced that you will come away a better “student” and more fully equipped to fulfill the “great commission” of reaching the lost, especially those who do not believe that they are lost.

Respectfully,

Bro. Michael Klann Sr. (Primary Editor)
